The Annual General Assembly (AGA) of the Global Donor Platform for Rural Development (GDPRD) is an annual event that provides an open space for dialogue and discussion on critical emerging issues in rural development and food systems. It brings together Platform members, partners and invited guests.

The Platform Secretariat and its host, the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD), are very pleased to be able to offer members and partners the opportunity to gather in person for the first time in over two years.

This year's edition of the AGA will focus on how donors and others can best support progress on the further development and implementation of the national pathways for food system transformation. This must be accomplished in the context of needing to accelerate progress on the sustainable development goals (SDGs), while also facing new crises and conflict.

The AGA also provides a great opportunity for informal networking and knowledge sharing.

The Platform is committed to helping take forward the outcomes of last year's United Nations Food Systems Summit (FSS). As such, the AGA will be a chance for members and partners to examine more deeply how the directions outlined in the GDPRD's white paper on transforming food systems can be progressed.

The need for food systems transformation has been further underscored by how current conflicts and global factors have dramatically increased food prices. There is an emerging challenge for donors to balance their responses to immediate crises, with support for building long-term resilience in food systems and rural livelihoods.

The Global Donor Platform for Rural Development (GDPRD) is a network/ partnership platform of 40 bilateral and multilateral development agencies, international financial institutions, intergovernmental organizations and foundations. It was established in 2003 to lobby for increased public and private investments in food systems, agriculture and rural development.
