

Unlocking the potential of a multi-stakeholder approach to healthy food systems

Thursday 22 September 2022, 9:30-11:00 am CEST
Virtual Event on Zoom

Provisional agenda

Event chaired by Tom Mwangi Anyonge, Director a.i Environment, Climate, Gender and Social Inclusion Division, International Fund for Agriculture Development (IFAD)

9:30	Opening Remarks by Sara Mbago-Bhunu , East and Southern Africa (ESA) Director, IFAD
9:35	Keynotes: The importance of engaging the various stakeholders in transforming food systems John Ulimwengu , Senior Research Fellow, International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI)
PANEL DISCUSSION
9:45	Boosting the private sector to contribute to food systems transformation Manasi Deodhar , Manager, Global Communications, Science Group, Global Communications Department, Ajinomoto Co., Inc
9:55	Understanding the policy environment to deliver nutritious food systems Leila Alouane , Professor of Nutrition, Independent Expert consultant in Nutrition, Tunisia.
10:05	The role of research in providing evidence based solutions to meet the demand for healthy food Aly Abousabaa , Director General, International Center for Agricultural Research in the Dry Areas (ICARDA)
10:15	Unlocking the potential of women and women's leadership to foster food systems transformation Raghda Kurdi , Board Member, The Arab International Women's Forum (AIWF)

10:25	Addressing the challenge of financial gaps in building partnerships Paxina Chileshe , Regional Climate and Environment Specialist, International fund for Agriculture Development (IFAD)
10:35	Open discussion with the audience
10:55	Conclusions and closure by Chair Tom Mwangi Anyonge , Director a.i Environment, Climate, Gender and Social Inclusion Division, International fund for Agriculture Development (IFAD)

Interpretation: The event is in English with simultaneous interpretation in French

Participation: Registration is required; you can register here