This event presents the new IFAD Evaluation Manual launched by the International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD) in 2022.

The Manual draws from recent contributions on the theory and practice of evaluation, with special reference to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, and provides guidance on how to adapt international standards, practices, and evaluation criteria in the context of rural development, particularly when the end-clients of development interventions are smallholder farmers.

The event will bring together representatives of international organizations, governments of developing countries and evaluation practitioners to share and generate insight on:

- ▶ translating key 2030 Agenda concepts into evaluation practice;
- ▶ adapting evaluation criteria and standards to rural poverty alleviation;
- ▶ the needs of and opportunities for rural development and evaluation practitioners and institutional stakeholders.
